

LOOKING FOR SUSPECT HERE

Darrah, the Alleged Wife Murderer, Thought to Have Come This Way

Bedford, Mass., Aug. 25.—Having traced Bliss W. Darrah, the alleged wife murderer, to the farm in Burlington where he stopped on the night his wife was murdered here, and to towns beyond, the Bedford police have given up the theory of suicide which they held strongly up to a few days ago, and are in active hunt for the missing man.

From remarks dropped by Darrah in places where he visited during his flight, it is believed that he has reached some New England seaport, either Gloucester, Salem, Newburyport or Portsmouth, N. H. probably. The police at these places have been notified to keep a lookout for him. Although Chief Kelley and the other officers who were at work on the case held strongly to the belief that Darrah had committed suicide in the vicinity of the crime, the search for him was maintained, and a few days ago his trail was definitely located.

It was found that he stayed on the night of the murder, Aug. 15, at the farmhouse in Burlington of James Patterson, sleeping in the barn with the consent of the owner. Mr. Patterson said the man reached the farmhouse late Tuesday night and asked for a bite to eat and a place to sleep saying he had had trouble in Bedford and had to leave there. He asked the way to some seacoast town and appeared very nervous. He was furnished with a knife to assist in eating the food given him, and he asked permission to keep the knife.

ARREST ESCAPED

NAVAL PRISONER

Shultz, One of Trio Captured in New York—Gone Since June 13

Deputy Sheriff E. A. Bently of Medina, N. Y. arrived here today having in custody Leo Shultz, an escaped prisoner from the navy, whom he turned over to the commanding officer, W. L. Hill of the U. S. S. Southern. Shultz has been gone since Sunday night, June 13.

He escaped from the floating prison with two others, James C. Manning and Lafayette Warner, by sawing off the bars over the gunports and swimming to the Kitey shore in his night clothes. The missing men were not discovered until 5 o'clock the morning, when the alarm was sounded and the guard called out. Nothing relative to their whereabouts could be learned and the guard was called in within an hour.

Shultz kept away from his native place until last week when the sheriff, who was holding a reward of $50, picked him up on the street. When questioned as to where his comrades were he answered by simply stating that they were safe where the government would never get them. Shultz has part of two years of his original sentence to serve and enlisted from Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 8, 1910.

CHARGED WITH POISONING

Case of Orman Carl Continued Pending Report of State Chemist

Orman Carl, who is charged by the county authorities with the wholesale poisoning of a well and spring at the farm of John Randall at Nottingham was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Simes on Friday charged with carrying and distributing poison. County Solicitor Ernest L. Gupilli who appeared for the prosecution said that the state chemistry department had informed him of the finding of arsenate of lead in the specimens taken from the well and brook, and that a written statement to that effect is now being forwarded by the department. Pending the receipt of the statement, the hearing was continued to Sept. 1.

Carl, who was a discharged employe of Randall, reappeared at the farm this year in search of work. He solicited his former position of blacksmith but Randall employed him to assist in haying. When the crop was gathered, Carl was again discharged by the county authorities. Randall was drawing water from a faucet in his house through which water is conveyed from the well on the morning of Aug. 6. His wife was preparing to drink a glassful of water when she detected a whitish sediment. Later examination showed the same whitish substance in the well that supplies the house with water and in a brook from which the cattle drink.

The state claims to have found people who saw Carl in the vicinity of the Randall farm late at night of Aug. 5 and early in the morning of Aug. 6. Carl was arrested in Deerfield by Solicitor Gupilli and Sheriff Ceylon Spinney. From the time of his arrest, Carl has pleaded ignorance of the affair. The technical charge preferred against him is of carrying poison.

INSPECTOR LOOKING AFTER CHARCOAL BAGS

The ever busy inspector of weights and measures Charles W. Andrews furnished another surprise in his line of duty on Friday when he went on a hunt for charcoal bags. It is understood that out of town firms who have been selling the burnt wood in Portsmouth are somewhat shy on the weight, and that Inspector Andrews immediately captured several bags as evidence. We can expect later to hear of further developments in this matter and there will be something doing when the inspector is ready to let loose.

WILDER AND CLAFLIN IN FINALS "Big Chief" Bender, Great Pitcher If Given Plenty of Rest

Some Close Matches in Abenaki Tournament---Bass Played Fine Match.

The Abenaki Open golf tournament, is now down to the finals with Henry H. Wilder the Captain of the Massachusetts Golf team and Thomas M. Claflin of Wallaston to play the thirty-six hole match today. All of the other divisions are down to the finals and some of the matches were very close many of them going extra holes and one match going to the twenty-second hole. It was not ideal golf weather for it rained hard during the entire day and the course was heavy.

Wilder won his way into the finals by winning two hard matches; in the morning from C. W. Bass of the Portsmouth Country Club, the match going two extra holes and in the afternoon by defeating Parker W. Whittemore of the Brookline Country Club. The Bass-Wilder match was the best of the day and Bass had the better of the going, and at the 13th had Wilder two down. Bass won the first hole and Wilder took the second with a three. They halved the long hole in six and Bass won the fourth in four and the fifth went to Wilder four to five, Bass won the sixth in four to Wilder's five and on the short hole Wilder drove his first ball out of bounds and then sliced another over into the rough. Bass was under the trees on his drive and in a bad position and he was four getting out onto the green and took six to Wilder's five making the match all even. Bass won the eighth in three and lost the ninth in four. At the turn they were even and they halved the tenth. Bass got a pretty three for a win on the eleventh and they halved the short hole in three. At the thirteenth Bass drove the edge of the green while Wilder flubbed his drive and Bass was down in three. On the fourteenth both were on the end of the green in two, and Wilder laid his approach dead while Bass was over and missed his put and Wilder won it in four. The fifteenth both got good drive and Bass flubbed his second and the match was square. At the 16th, they both were on the green in two and both putted for three but missed. The seventeenth, both got good drives and Bass' approach was within six feet of the pin while Wilder was over. Bass missed his put and it was halved in four. On the eighteenth both were well down on their second shot and Wilder's approach caught the ditch. Bass made a pretty approach shot and was just short of the green and his approach left him within three feet of the cup while Wilder was ten feet away and he failed to hole a five and the gallery had given it up as Bass hole and match when his put rimmed the cup and stayed out and the hole was halved in six. On the extra hole Bass got the better drive and was six feet from the hole on his approach with Wilder up to one side but he laid his third dead, and Bass failed to get the put. On the twentieth Wilder got a handsome creak within three feet of the hole and Bass was over and his approach back was short and he failed for a three and picked his ball, Wilder being sure of a three.

In the afternoon Wilder defeated Whittemore, the Country Club crack not being in his usual good form and was never dangerous.

Claflin in the lower half had two rather easy matches to get to the finals, and he disposed of Lannigan and Sweeney easily.

The following was the summary:

SHOP MANAGEMENT

Hearings have been held before the House committee on commerce and labor on Mr. Pepper's resolution to investigate the Taylor system of shop management as applied to navy yards, arsenals, etc. A protest against the adoption of the system has been addressed to the secretary of war from a committee of employees at the Rock Island Arsenal, who state: "While we believe in all progressive methods, and that economy is requisite in government shops we fail to see the necessity of introducing a system embodying such drastic measures and advocating such undemocratic principles as follows:

"(1) The overworking and enslaving of employees.
"(2) The elimination of the skilled mechanic.
"(3) The tremendous unemployed problem which will not be caused by the elimination of workmen who can not attain the maximum of efficiency.

"(4) The evil of denying employees a voice in determining the conditions under which they are to work, and the manufacturer assuming the right of doing 'his own business' in his 'own way,' irrespective of the rights of his employees.

"This state of affairs has resulted in the horrible labor conditions existing in the steel industries of Pennsylvania, where the maximum of endurance is the test.

"(5) The assumption that the amazing wealth is the question of prime importance, and the effect upon the working people of second-class consideration, instead of regarding the industry of the country as a whole. A great many dollars would be made by the entire people, and the fortune writing out a prescription like this--made to be allowed only as an incentive for the maintenance of in-

Philadelphia, Aug. 26--If "Big Chief" Charlie Bender could be an iron man like Big Jack Coombs, Constable Mack would have cinched the American league pennant a month ago. But Bender is an Indian, full blooded and endowed with every characteristic of his people. One of these is laziness. Bender finds laziness standing in the way of his success. The real Indian shuns real work, and Bender is a real Indian. This time of the year finds him in his greatest form. When Bender pitches every fifth day he thinks he is being overworked. He is a veteran, but still he could pitch every third day and not mind it. But he is not built that way. Connie thinks that he is getting away lucky by having Bender in there every fifth day. It takes all the persuasion and cajoling that Mack is capable of, and he can master more than any man in the same, to have Bender in the box every fourth or fifth day.

"(6) The assumption that this system acts as a labor-saving invention which would create a new field for the manufacture of commodities, but a reality a philosophy which eliminates the average man.

"(7) The assumption that it is proper to use a stop-watch for the purpose of ascertaining the maximum amount of work that can be done by an employee without applying the same principle to the manufacturer and ascertain the maximum amount of wages he is able to pay.

"(8) The process of securing a body of satisfied workmen by eliminating those who are dissatisfied, thus creating a situation where a workman will refrain from divulging his real feelings in the matter for fear of losing his position.

"We believe that in the manufacture of munitions of war that excellence is the main object, and that any system which advocates the excessive speed of two or three times the present output for each employee will not produce the desired results.

"In view of the above stated considerations, we request that you abandon your present plan of allowing the Taylor system of shop management to be installed at the Rock Island Arsenal. We also trust that the foregoing statement will explain our attitude in regard to the Taylor system, and request an early reply, informing us of the length of time necessary before a decision in our case will be rendered, in order that we may regulate our stay at Washington accordingly."

The secretary of war replied as follows:

War Department, Washington.

Gentlemen: I received on April 17 your communication of April 14, setting forth your reasons why you object to the installation of the Taylor system of shop management at the Rock Island Arsenal, and have carefully considered the same.

The system concerns the general systematization of an industrial establishment, embodying features which, however, do not affect the efforts which the workmen are expected to put forth or their hours of work or compensation, and also features which relate to the output of the individual workman, including instructions for improvement in his methods of work and the stimulation to induce him to do his best and act in general accord with the management. At the Watertown Arsenal, the have not yet gotten beyond the features of the system, which concern systematization only, and have attempted nothing affecting the workmen directly, or the terms or conditions of their employment. I learn on inquiry that there has been no determination as yet to introduce any features of the Taylor system directly affecting the workmen at any other establishment than at the Watertown Arsenal, where it is proposed first to give them a trial.

Certainly it seems that there could be no reasonable objection to a practical trial of them at one of the arsenals. That would demonstrate whether or not your objections were well founded. At any rate, there is no present purpose to introduce such features at the Rock Island Arsenal and, therefore, your protest in that respect is premature. The board which was convened has recommended only the introduction of other arsenals of some of the features which have already been in use at the Watertown Arsenal, which, as stated, are not those which affect the workmen directly or the terms or conditions of their employment.

It is believed that much has been accomplished at the Watertown Arsenal in respect of the features now proposed to be introduced at Rock Island, to wit those which concern the systematization of the method of putting work into the shops, so that orders for manufacture now go from the office to the shops with a much more complete arrangement and supply than formerly of drawings, specifications, lists of parts bills of material, and orders relating to particular parts of the structure to be produced, so that the foremen are relieved from much of the clerical and other office work which they used to have to do. There has been a systematization of the work of planning the course of component parts of the structures to be manufactured through the shops of the arsenal, so that this course shall be regular and orderly, and the work shall at no time be held through the lack of some component which is not at hand when needed, and so that no wasteful effects shall arise through congestion of work at particular machines, or the idleness of other machines or workmen while waiting for the assignment of operations which should have been planned for them in advance. There has been installed a planning room equipped with personnel and appliances for the regular production of what might be called the time-tables of the thousands of pieces which must travel through the pattern shop, the foundry, the forgo shop, the machine shop, and the erecting shop on their way from the stage of raw material to that of finished product without collisions or unnecessary delays. They have systematized the issue of material for manufacture from the storehouses to the shops and have placed the task of estimating the amount of material required among the duties of persons other than those who are to make use of the material in manufacture, so as to reduce the likelihood of over-estimates, to insure the possession of the material at the time when it is needed, and the return to the storehouse of surplus material. The result has been a useful reduction of the amount of material issued for particular fabrications. It has resulted in greater care of material in store and in the accountability for it. The method pursued has resulted in greater care of machines and tools so as to preserve their efficiency. Estimates based upon the results have shown a material benefit to the government from the changes which have been instituted there.

It would seem that there could be no reasonable objection to extending the usefulness experienced along the lines indicated to other arsenals, especially as the changes thus far put into practice in no wise affect the efforts which individual workmen are called upon to make or the method by which they are compensated.

In view of what it is proposed to do at the Rock Island Arsenal, and looking to the benefits which such systematization seems to have brought to the Watertown Arsenal, I do not feel justified in acting up apprehensions of what may take place in respect to other features and forbidding the installation of improvements whose value has already been demonstrated.

Very respectfully,
J. M. Dickinson,
Secretary of War.

SAILOR CHARGED WITH FORGERY

Arrest Made at Navy Yard By United States Marshal Johnson.

Boston, Aug. 25.

William W. Stone, postoffice inspector was here on Thursday and worked out an interesting case of forgery and robbery committed by a seaman on the United States armored cruiser Mootana, now at Portsmouth navy yard.

The seaman in question is a Polishman, a Greek, whose name on the ship was Joseph O'Connell. The Polishman was without funds beyond his pay, while O'Connell had saved some of his money and had it on deposit in a Bowery savings bank in New York.

Being very much in need of money the Polishman, it is alleged, stole some of the withdrawal slips while his mate was absent. He filled one out for $10, signed O'Connell's name to it, and sent it on to the bank.

The slip was honored and the money came back on July 17.

Fifty Dollars Next Time.

This was so easy that the next slip made out by the Polishman called for $50, and this amount came to Portsmouth on July 27. It is stated.

A short time ago O'Connell needed some money and sent on the slip to the bank. While he got his money all right he received a reprimand from the bank officials, saying that he had been calling for money pretty frequently and that it was putting the bank to considerable trouble in the matter of book keeping.

O'Connell Suspicious.

The navy regulations call for mail for the crews of any vessel to be delivered on the ship; but in his communications to the bank the Polishman asked that the money might be sent in registered letters to the general delivery department of the Portsmouth office in order to prevent delay in delivery, which was done.

The harsh note from the bank caused O'Connell not only to look up the standing of his account, but to do a little investigating on his own account. He had noticed that his mate had been particularly flush and finally his suspicions against him became so strong that he reported the matter to the officers of the ship, and Inspector Stone was called in.

A Confession Alleged.

On arrival, Inspector Stone at once took Grenkowski to the captain's cabin and after an hour's inquiry succeeded in getting a confession from him in which he admitted all the facts alleged.

He was then locked up in the ship's prison for the night, and Friday Deputy United States Marshal Fred S. Johnson went after him.

Grenkowski was taken to Manchester last evening, where he will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Crawford, and bound over to the grand jury at Portsmouth.

most noted aviators of America and Europe have gathered here to take part in the second bi flying meet to be conducted under the auspices of the Harvard Aviation Society. The meet was formally inaugurated on the aviation field at Atlantic today and will continue for an entire week. One of the big events of the program will be a cross-country flight of 160 miles, for which a cash prize of $10,000 has been offered by a Boston newspaper. The route of the contest is to be from Boston to Nashua, N. H., from Nashua to Worcester, Mass., from Worcester to Providence, R. I., and from Providence to Boston.

This was accorded him, and with the aid of a farm hand he sharpened it on a grindstone and took it away with him.

Darragh was up before him, being gone when the farm hand got up in the morning to do his chores. The local police have traced him over a northerly route to North Wilmington, at a point near North Andover. There the results of the search stopped, although the officers are still at work on the case.

STRATHAM MAN SUICIDE

William H. Whitto, an aged resident of Stratham took his life on Friday morning by cutting his throat at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Valentine K. Nickerson, whither he came from Marlboro, Mass., last May to recuperate.

He committed the act in a shed and then walked to the front of the house and back to the kitchen, where he dropped dead. He had nervous prostration. The Nickersons came here recently. Mr. Nickerson is now employed at Marlboro.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run-down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy Moore, Conn.

Odd Marriage Notices.

There are some quaint old time marriage notices that have been dug up by the Springfield Union:

In Boston, August, 1840, Mr. John Bate of Williamstown, Mass., to Miss Mary Ann Bass of the former place, after a courtship of one hour.

Is not this amusing well, I ask, Such tender love to take?

The cause in one small hour a Bass.

The Bass, though, caught the Bass.

Married, at Bridgewater, Dec. 10, 1788, Captain Thomas Baxter of Quincy, aged sixty-six, to Miss Whitman of the former place, aged fifty-eight years, after a long and tedious courtship of forty-eight years, which they both sustained with uncommon fortitude.

In Boston, April, 1821, by the Rev. William Sabine, Joseph Willcutt to Miss Susan Willcutt, after a tedious courtship, of thirteen days, and but thirty-five days after the death of his former wife.

The best way, it seems, a deep sorrow to smother.

For the loss of a wife is to marry another.

Heatstroke and Sunstroke.

Heatstroke and sunstroke are terms usually applied indifferently to either of two quite distinct conditions, to each of which only one of the names properly applies. Heatstroke, as its name implies, is a condition caused by the action of excessive heat, either the torrid heat of summer or the artificial heat of a foundry, a furnace, the stove-hole of a steamship, etc. It occurs with almost as great frequency at night as in the day, and its victims may be overcome on a cloudy day or without having ventured from their homes. The other form, properly called sunstroke, is due to the direct action of the sun—probably of its ultra violet or chemical rays rather than of its heat rays. Only those who have been long exposed to the direct rays of the sun, such as soldiers on the march, harvesters, ball players, etc., are the subjects of true sunstroke.—Dr. T. L. Steadman in Good Housekeeping.

Responsive Flowers.

Karlstrom says flowers have understanding and know when persons care for them. He says they respond to a loving touch and to a caress. The Swedish collector touches flowers affectionately as he walks through his greenhouse and insists they have a language for those who understand. He points to a flower with drooping head and says it is calling for water. In different ways, he explains, flowers ask for light, warmth, sunshine, and when satisfied the flowers lift up their heads buoyantly and express the pure joy of being. Karlstrom advises the study of flowers through magnifying glasses, saying their beauty is not half appreciated otherwise. A flower under the glass, he asserts, reveals remarkable beauty and if taken to pieces discloses wonders never appreciated.—New York Press.

A Sensitive Horse.

Harsh treatment, though it stop short of inflicting physical pain, keeps a nervous horse in a state of misery. A single blow may be enough to spoil a race. Daniel Lambert, founder of the Lambert branch of the Morgan family, was thought as a three-year-old to be the fastest trotting stallion of his day. He was a very handsome, stylish, intelligent horse and also extremely sensitive. His driver, Dan Mace, though one of the best reinmen in America, once made the mistake, through ill temper or bad judgment, of giving Daniel Lambert a severe cut with the whip, and that single blow put an end to his usefulness as a trotter. He became wild and ungovernable in harness and remained so for the rest of his life.

How Kangaroos Fight.

Kangaroos are distributed over all parts of Queensland. The "old man," or fully grown male, is mostly found on downs and in open forest country. An "old man" sometimes grows to the height of six feet and when hunted into a rocky gorge or corner will turn and face its pursuer. It is a formidable adversary at close quarters. Its mode of fighting is to clasp its enemy in its arms, hug him to its breast and then with its powerful hind claws rip him open.

Turn About.

"Tapn says if I give up my singing lessons he will present me with a pair of diamond earrings."

"You have never worn earrings, have you?"

"No; I should have to have my ears pierced."

"Ah, yes! I see his idea. He wants to pay you back in your own coin!"

A Dubious Compliment.

Dobby was showing off his baby. "Think he looks like me, Slithers?" he asked.

"Well—no," said Slithers, looking at the youngster critically. "He's a queer looking little cuss all right, but I shouldn't go as far as to say that he looks like you."—Judge.

Woman's Woes.

As soon as a married woman gets $50 saved up she becomes oppressed by the thought that she is merely accumulating a fortune for the second wife to spend.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Our Near Neighbors.

Mother—Don't you know, darling, that we are commanded to love our neighbors? "Little One"—Yes, an' I s'pose that's cause we can get along with most everybody else.—Exchange.

It is far better to be innocent than penitent, to prevent the malady than treat the remedy.—Becker.

Forty-fifth Annual Reunion of Civil War Veterans Showed the Depletion Time Has Made In the Ranks.

The attendance of veterans at the forty-fifth annual encampment of the G. A. R. at Rochester, N. Y., was so greatly smaller than at the last previous reunion as to arouse comment on the rate at which the ranks of the veterans are growing thinner. In 1860 the membership was 400,480, while at present it is hardly 185,000. In 1860 the average age of the boys in blue was twenty-seven, so that now it must be seventy-two. The laws of nature are unchangeable, and 150,000 veterans may not live to take part in the semicentennial of the close of the war in 1915, and probably not 50,000 will be alive to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1920.

HIDDEN JOYS.
The best sort of happiness is very rarely visible to the multitude. It lies hidden in odd corners and in quiet places, and the eager world, which presumably is seeking it, hurries past and never recognizes it, but continues to mistake for it prosperity and riches, noise and laughter and even fame and mere cheap notoriety.—Henry Seton Merriman.

TAFT'S FOLLOWING
Breathes there an American citizen of wit so dense that he does not see the unmistakable signs of a swinging toward President Taft on the part of even the insurgents? Undoubtedly there are many such dullards and the pity is that they miss the joy of witnessing such an occurrence. There is consolation, however, in the thought that even did they realize that our genial chief executive is making friends daily they would be unable to see the good it portends.
The fact is that day by day our big President could number new converts to his methods by hundreds, were he so minded. The army of the enlightened which sees that he is the kind of President needed for years grows by leaps and bounds.
The converted insurgent is to be congratulated that he is able to see that William Howard Taft's kind, which works multiple reform with the least possible blare of trumpets, is far preferable to him of exactly opposite characteristics whose type is so much more common.
Ycs congratulations are in order even though they would seem to be inspired almost without cause. The American voter has at times a way of developing porcine tendencies—as witness the attitude of Taft's antagonists—and relief in unexpected quarters is doubly grateful.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS
If ultimatums always meant war, where would Turkey be, asks the Boston Herald. The obvious answer is "in the soup."
A school is to be established at Indianapolis for the training of stewards, and one may rest assured that it will be a tip top affair.
Aviator Alwood has caused to be thankful that it was only an aeroplane trap and not a death trap into which he descended at Nyack, N. Y.
Harvard has been presented with a 1000 pound turtle but this does not necessarily mean a settlement of the long standing question, "Is a turtle a fish?"
Where, oh where, are the naughty Geraghtys? For the past week their doings have fallen in the papers to edify the society which Madam G. scorned.
Although population in most German cities increased greatly during the past year, that of the capital practically stood still. Berlin and Fifth Avenue, New York, have at least one point in common.
AMONG OUR EXCHANGES
The main causes of what is termed lying in boys are sympathetically grouped by a professor of pedagogy as "newspapers, suggestive literature, conversation, environment or a combination of these."

All of these worked upon Ibsen's hero Peer Gynt. Add a sense of humor—the predominant trait in those twin fat men of fiction Shakespeare's Falstaff and Stenikiewicz's Zastobna—and the list may cover adult as well as juvenile prevarication. None of these motives comes under the prohibitions of the Decalogue, which thunders only at bearing false witness against one's neighbor—a very different matter.
In the scriptural sense lying is not very common and much of what exists passes for public service. It is as hard exactly to define falsehood as it is to define truth, and of that Pliny vainly required a definition. It denotes a defect of imagination or of politics to call a man a liar usually mental resource on the part of his critic. Some literal persons denounce even novels as "pure lying," and doubtless there are exuberant persons who are as egregiously misapprehensive and misapprehended.
All men feel the artist impulse which urges them to develop the germ of an idea or incident into flower and fruit. If their art is impersonal the result may be a novel or a short story; if personal, and under influence of egotism or "a misunderstood motive of heroism," the result may be what is called "a monumental liar," who is a long way from being a public enemy. The boundary between him and the novelist is bridged by the man of whom it is commonly said that "he will not spoil a good story in the telling."—New York World.

Our Summer Boarders
The summer tourist industry in New Hampshire is at flood tide and reports from all sections of the state are to the effect that hotels, boarding houses and farm houses, as well as cottages and camps, are filled chuck-a-block full and booked to repletion for the entire month of August. If you go to the magnificent Mount Washington house at Bretton Woods where the price of board is from $20 a day up and high as you care to pay and ask for a room for a week or two, the clerk will cheerfully take your name and reserve accommodations for next season, but the rooms are practically all taken for the remainder of this season and the same is understood to be the case at nearly all of the big hotels in the mountain region and lake region as well. It is generally admitted that July business was rather below the average at most of the summer hotels, but a constantly increasing proportion of New Hampshire's summer visitors now come to their own cottages or camps, and this part of the summer traffic does not have its ups and downs, but is as steady and regular as an old-fashioned eight-day clock. It would be mighty interesting to have a census taken of New Hampshire's population during the month of August, say on Old Home Week.—Laconia Democrat.

HARST SHOWS ACTIVITY
Washington, Aug. 25.—Political friends of the Administration find that William R. Hearst has made one of his unexpected moves in politics. Mr. Hearst through his newspapers has been showering compliments of President Taft, and his sudden change of attitude has caused surprise and a little guessing. Mr. Hearst executed his latest political move by cabling a signed statement from Paris to the Washington Post. In this statement Mr. Hearst clearly indicates an intention of getting busy in national politics. He says that the President has taken his stand with the "interests" by vetoing the tariff bill. Mr. Hearst's newspapers praised Mr. Taft for his stand in favor of Canadian reciprocity. The

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Gleanings From Files of Portsmouth Chronicle

Minister Pike, in dispatch from the Hague, referring to the Bull Run affair, says that in his judgment this reverse will not especially prejudice our cause or lead to adverse action in Europe. A public sentiment has gradually been developed on that side of the water in regard to our affairs which is inclined to await a fair trial of the strength of the government without prejudicing its ability to overcome its misfortunes.
We regret to learn that a boy named Teal, ten or twelve years of age, was severely injured on Saturday evening last by being run over by the horse carriage attached to engine No. 4. The accident occurred near Portsmouth bridge.
Concord has had two regiments encamped there, and Manchester one, besides the battery. Besides the advantages which Concord has thus derived, she has enjoyed many others—her citizens constructing all the wagons, etc., and supplying a large proportion of the other articles needed by the regiments. Manchester also has not been entirely neglected in this respect. We do not complain that our sister cities have thus been favored but would

Post interview intimates that "trusts through corruption and coercion may control the Democratic Convention as they will the Republican Convention." He says that "if they shall nominate a trust-controlled Democrat, as they will nominate a trust-controlled Republican, then let the Democrat, Progressive League unite with the Republican Progressive League and place a genuine progressive of whatever party in the field, fearlessly to make the fight for the citizens and to oppose the bi-partisan representatives of the trusts."
Some of the Democrats are a little uneasy over Mr. Hearst's political activity acquire him as one of their assets in the campaign of 1912. They believe that Mr. Hearst has designs on the national ticket for 1912 and is looking for a place for himself. They think that if he fails to get recognition in the Democratic Convention he may call a meeting of insurgents of both parties and nominate himself on a third ticket.

KEEPING TABS ON THE MINORS
A new law in New Hampshire forbids the posting of baseball scores in saloons.
Dick Conley has his Salt Lake city team well up in the Union Association race.
"Bugs" Raymond is back in Chicago and spending his time pitching for the boys on the lots.
The heavy clotting of Tim Jordan and Al Shaw has put the Toronto fans all to the joy.
Sharon, Pa., has taken over the defunct New Castle team in the Ohio and Pennsylvania league.
The Cotton States League teams don't seem to be able to stop Vicksburg. The Hill Billies look like sure winners.
Cincinnati has sent infielder Grieves to the Huntington Mountain State league team for the remainder of the season.
In Curtis Coleman, of the Tacoma team, the New York Americans get the class among third basemen in the Northwestern league.
Cravath, Grimsshaw and Denny Sullivan, three ex-Boston American league players, are leading the American Association in stick work.
The American Association of minor league will meet in San Antonio, Texas, in November. The meeting will bring together nearly 1000 baseball men.
Ping Bodie, of the White Sox, has three brothers playing ball in California. The Bodie family may become as famous on the ball field as Delehantys.
Pitcher Douglas, who has been purchased by the Chicago White Sox from Macon, Ga., club, has a record of 24 victories out of 31 games in the South Atlantic league.
Manager Steve Flanagan of the Brockton New England league team has purchased First Baseman Barry of the Brantford, Ont., club. Barry leads the Canadian league in batting.
San Francisco has a semi-professional team composed of Irish boys playing under the name of "The Chinese merchant and manager" by a Jew. Mary put away the score, I hear thunder.
Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Deane's Ointment.

The Observer
One decision of the grand aerle of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, just held in San Francisco, which is considered of great importance is that, permitting the organization of more than one aerle in cities of 250,000 inhabitants or more without the consent of the aerle already in existence. It was also decided that an aerle may be organized in a city of 2500 or more inhabitants providing the grand worthy president decides that the dispensation should be granted and that the city or town is able to support such an aerle.
The members of the Portsmouth Yacht club are having considerable fun at the expense of two of their prominent members just at the present time. A few days ago they espied floating in the river what they thought was a huge sun fish and put off from the shore to capture the fish. As neither had never caught a fish of this description, their fishing experience being limited to the catching of eunners, flat fish and a stray cod, they went prepared for the expected big prize, taking a harpoon to spear the fish.
On their close approach to their prey, it was found that it was not a sun fish but a dead dog that was floating down the stream. Now when any of their fellow club members mention a sun fish it calls for mirth on the part of others, but not from the consorsial artist and his companion.
An exchange well says: Any step towards beautifying the spaces alongside of the railroad tracks is welcomed by passengers. Just as the neat tidy well kept grass plots denotes the thrifty householder so attractive stations and neatness alongside the tracks indicates a prosperous railroad. The suggestion to replace wire fences with hedges is an admirable one particularly if the fences are of barbed wire which are so frequent between many railroads and the adjoining property. Any high fence of hedge will keep out cattle without the use of the cruel barbed wire. We have seen frightened animals attempt to get by a barbed wire fence and become seriously torn and lacerated. In the interest of humanity as well as from an aesthetic standpoint the replacing of barbed wire with hedges would be appreciated.

The summer visitor in the majority, always loud in their praises of Portsmouth and its beautiful surroundings. We are greatly dependent on the summer patronage and all must admit that we should make our city as attractive as possible for the stranger within our gates. During the past summer waste paper has been allowed to litter our principal streets in a manner anything but pleasing to our citizens. If the condition of affairs is objectionable to our business men as well as those living in the residential section, it cannot be pleasing to the visitors. The cleanliness of a city is one of its best advertisements. As dependent as we are on the summer tourist, why can't an effort be made to have our street cleaned of waste paper.
IN CASE OF FIRE
Chief Engineer Randall issues a Few Timely Hints
Chief Engineer John D. Randall of the fire department has issued a placard containing a list of the fire alarm boxes and a few timely hints as follows:
"If hemmed in by fire or smoke, crawl on the floor. The clearest air is lowest in the room. Cover head with woolen wrap, wet if possible. Cut holes for the eyes. Don't get excited.
"Familiarize yourself with the locations of hall windows and natural escapes. Learn the locations of exits to the roof. Should you hear the cry of 'Fire!' and should columns of smoke fill the room, above all, keep cool. Keep the doors of rooms shut. Open windows from the top. Wet a towel, stuff it in the mouth breathe through it instead of nose so as not to inhale smoke. Stand at window and get benefit of outside air. If room fills with smoke, keep close to floor and crawl along by the wall to the window.
"Do not jump unless the blaze behind is scorching you. Do not even then if the fire is with ladders and burning up the building. If you hear a shout to 'Go to the roof' escape to the roof and you know there is an escape from it to an adjoining building. In big buildings are always goes to the top."
Among the final instructions contained in the statement issued by

GOOD NEWS FOR EVERYBODY
George Ade is Going to Write 10 New Fables in Slang for the Boston Sunday Globe—Every One of Them is Up to Date—The First One About the Automobile Crank is a Gale of Fun.
The Boston Sunday Globe, after much negotiation, is enabled to announce that, beginning next Sunday, it will publish 10 new "Fables in Slang" by George Ade. Considering Mr. Ade's fame as a writer for the stage and his income therefrom, you can imagine that a handsome pecuniary compensation was necessary to induce him to step aside from the dramatic field to till again the soil on which his first prolific crops of mirth were grown.
Yet it would be unjust to Mr. Ade to intimate that money alone was the moving power which led him to come back to his first audience. On the contrary, his natural love of the newspaper world and newspaper audiences were so strong and his gratitude toward those who first encouraged him with their generous applause so intense that he could not resist the temptation to come back and have a new series of laughs with them. As far as New England is concerned these will appear exclusively in the Boston Sunday Globe.
Don't forget to tell all your friends that George Ade is going to write a series of new fables in slang for the Boston Sunday Globe beginning Sunday, Sept. 3.

the doors of each apartment, especially in the lower floors of the houses, before retiring at night and there will be no rapid spread of flames."

CHARGED WITH ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS

On Friday afternoon there was a sequel to the Call divorce case when Thomas E. Call caused Dr. Lemuel Poole, the well known veterinary surgeon, to be arrested on the charge of having alienated the affections of his former wife, Mrs. Mabelle Call, alleging damages in the sum of $10,000. Dr. Poole was arrested by Deputy Sheriff William B. Shaw and the action is returnable at the October term of the superior court which convenes in this city. Dr. Poole had only returned to this city on the previous day, having for some time past made his home in Reading, Mass.

THIRTY-FIVE REPORTED DEAD

Lehigh Valley Express With G. A. R. Veterans Drops Through Trestle.

Rochester, N. Y., Friday.—Chicago-Buffalo train No. 4, on the Lehigh Valley railroad is reported to have gone through a trestle at Manchester, Ontario county, N. Y.

Twelve persons are reported killed.

The train was loaded with returning Grand Army veterans.

A special train carrying doctors and nurses has been sent to Manchester.

A telephone message from Canandaigua reports 25 killed and 50 injured. The train jumped the track near the bridge which spans Canandaigua inlet in the heart of the village of Manchester. The accident occurred at 12.30.

The train was heavily loaded with veterans and others returning from the "Grand Army" encampment in Rochester.

Ambulances and physicians from Canandaigua, Geneva and nearby towns have been summoned.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon no official information had been received to indicate whether or not there were any Manchester residents on the wrecked train. The fear exists that there may have been.

Buffalo, N. Y., Friday.—At the headquarters of the Lehigh Valley here it was said that the derailment of the train destroyed wire communication with Manchester and their information up to 2.30 was indefinite. A long distance telephone message said that four of the cars left the track and ran about eighty feet down an incline to a pump house on the creek bank.

The bed of the stream is about 18 feet below the tracks. The stream is dry during the summer months.

Not So Bad.

A telegram to Superintendent O'Neil from Manchester states that seven were killed and at least 25 injured many seriously. Four cars went into the ditch. The G. A. R. veterans were in two rear cars of the train, which did not leave the tracks.

GREENLAND

Rev. Norman E. Richardson, Ph.D., of Boston University (summering here with his family), very cordially consented to occupy Rev. Dr. Robie's pulpit last Sunday morning. A large congregation for a country church greeted this popular preacher. Dr. Richardson took for his text, "Holiness becometh thine house, O Lord, forever." He read the Bible narrative of Christ's finding and expelling the shrewd Jews who were trafficking and polluting the courts of the sacred temple with their worldliness and money getting schemes. "The temple that should be revered for the Owner's sake." From this he deduced an "Old Home" discourse full of inspiring and practical thought. Christ taught emphatically that the temple, the house of God should not be profaned, everything impure, unholy, should be driven out from the church, the home. Purify ever, should abide within these folds especially in the home where the plastic mind of childhood is receiving its first impressions for character-building, impressions of good or evil to dominate all its future life. Among many other beautiful truths he dwelt upon the simplicity of Christ's teachings, emphasizing that which we too often forget, that Christ always makes it easy for everyone to find God. Such a sermon ought to renew and strengthen his hearers' sense of personal responsibility to do all that is possible to keep the temple of the Lord without spot, the church and home-life pure, from which should flow continually only holy influences for the betterment, the uplifting of humanity.

Mrs. Nathaniel Simpson left on Sunday morning en route for her home in Wannatosa, Wis., after tarrying for a few weeks that seemed very brief to her long-time friends here.

Edward Robie, of New York city, is visiting his uncle, Rev. Dr. Robie. The latter has recovered from his recent illness and was out to church on Sunday as usual, much to the gratification of his parish.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huntress, of Newton Centre, Mass., came down Sunday afternoon in their touring car, returning Monday morning accompanied by Miss Ethel D. Lord, who arrived home on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Seavey are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Seavey.

Miss Ruth Lord and Miss Edith Clough are passing a week at Heddington.

Mrs. and Miss Mahoney are expected home this week, having been at Heddington also.

A card from Mrs. Edward S. Griffiths of Durham, dated at Edinburgh, Scotland, who is touring in England, Scotland and France, with her husband and daughter, Miss Sadie Marion, announces that they are well and having a delightful trip. Within the envelope was a dainty spray of heather from Rob Roy country—those

"Flowers" of the wild whose purple glow

Adorns the dusky mountain's side."

Mr. and Mrs. D. Webster Scott of Deerfield are expected visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Carr's.

Bids for labor on the painting of the academy building are to be opened today. The town authorities will provide material, and of course, accept the lowest proposal for labor.

Repairs have been made by carpenters on the outside and work done on the inside preparatory to an extra schoolroom.

Alva Tabbetts, of Pemberton Square, Boston, has been a guest of friends summering at Miss Philbrook's. He left on Monday.

Twenty or more persons from Greenland attended the aster show at Stratham on Thursday evening and were most pleasantly entertained at the very successful occasion.

HE WANTED TO KNOW.

And the Passenger Was Interested in the Car Signs.

The passenger with the retroactive chin leaned forward in the south side chair and touched the open faced young man on the shoulder.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but do you ever read the signs stuck up in this car?"

"Sometimes. What the?"

"Wait a moment, please. Did you ever happen to read the one over there that says, 'Passengers will please keep their feet off the seats'?"

"I don't know that it's any of your business."

"Well, it is my business, just the same."

"What is it to you whether I ever did or not?"

"It's a thundering sight to me, young man."

"Are you one of the officers of the road?"

"I'm more than one of the officers of the road, you squab!" said the passenger with the understanding of a chin, raising his voice. "I'm one of the advertisers. I pay good money to have a printed sheet of cardboard put up in these cars, and if I thought, by George, that the traveling public paid no more attention to it than you pay to that notice I'd take it down quicker than you could say 'I'm a thick headed clump!'"

The open faced youth turned a deeper shade of red, but he made no other response.

Except that he took his feet down.—Chicago Tribune.

Soft Capped Projectiles.

Many persons know that certain armor piercing shells have soft metal caps on the point, with the result of greater effectiveness over those not so provided, but the way in which the cap acts is not generally well understood. A needle may be driven into a board with a hammer when it is thrust through a cork, whereas it would break off unsupported. Many have thought that the soft cap supports the hard point of the projectile in the same way. A British authority who has given much study to the mutual action of the projectile and armor states that a shell frequently fails because of the fact that a very small piece of the point is forced back into the mass, thus splitting it. A larger piece is then similarly forced back, and so on. The main advantage of the soft cap, in the opinion of this authority, is to prevent such splitting.—Harper's Weekly.

Praise For the Sardine.

It is encouraging in these days, when everything nice is condemned by scientific fastidists as nasty, to have the high authority of the London Lancet in support of the popular theory that the sardine is of great dietetic value. The sardine is good, the Lancet tells us, because, for one thing, it encourages the consumption of oil, which tends to avoid "many ills, and especially those associated with wasting diseases and gaily dispositions." This consumption of sardine oil, it adds, "prevents the overloading of the tissues with nitrogenous waste products, and a digestible fat favors nutrition considerably. The sardine supplies also an excellent proportion (25 per cent) of nitrogenous material, and so it becomes a real and economical food. In addition to this the sardine has appetizing qualities, and where appetite serves digestion follows."

Mark Twain Headed the Voice. Mark Twain was quite at his best as an after dinner speaker at the banquet given in his honor some years ago by the members of the Authors' club. Incidentally he told his amused listeners the story of his first lapse from the paths of honesty. He was very young at the time, he explained, and the day was an exceedingly hot one. As he walked down the street of the village in which he was living he saw a cart loaded with melons of most attractive appearance.

"It is with regret I mention," Mark Twain went on, with a humorous twinkle in his eyes, "that I was tempted and I fell. I grabbed the most likely looking melon of the lot and hurriedly made my way to the back of the woodshed. I gouged a 'huge slice' out of it and bit it. No sooner had I done so when something within me convinced me that I had done wrong. A voice seemed to say, 'Mark, get up and take that melon right back to where you got it from.' It was about the greenest melon I had ever tasted. I went back to the cart and carefully replaced it and took a ripe one in its place."—Boston Traveler.

Curious Old Legend.

Here is a curious legend of Cologne. Once upon a time there was a burgomaster of the town whose wife died and was buried. In the evening thieves, seeking to take jewels from the dead, opened the coffin. Now it happened that the woman was not dead, but in a trance, and when the thieves broke into her burial place she awoke and went to her home. There she called a servant, who ran in fear to his master and told him what had happened. The scared burgomaster replied to this, "I would sooner believe that my horses were looking out of the top floor window than believe that such a thing could be." Scarcely had the words left his mouth than he heard horses galloping up the stairs. In memory of this and of the return of his wife he had two horses' heads in stone set in a top floor window of his house, where they remain to this day.

A Real Patriot.

"Let's see," said the lawyer who had met an out of town acquaintance on a street car, according to the New Orleans Picayune, "doesn't your town soon hold an election?"

"It does."

"And I suppose you take a lively interest in it?"

"Well, not too lively—not as lively as I used to."

"Interest falling off, eh? Didn't you run for mayor two or three years ago?"

"I have run for mayor of my town seven successive times, sir."

"And been—been—"

"Been defeated every time, sir."

"Then you probably won't run again?"

"That's uncertain. I am going to inquire around and find if I am really the man they want. If I am, then I'll take the candidacy; if not, then I will try to defeat the man they do want."

The Line of Life.

The line of life curves from the side of the hand between the thumb and forefinger around the base of the thumb to the center of the wrist joint. According to chiromancy (the pretended art of judging the character and foretelling the fortune of a person from the aspect of the hand), if this line in the left palm is regular and deeply colored it predicts a long and happy life; tortuous, colorless, feebly marked and colored it announces ill health and short life; narrow, but long and well colored, it indicates wisdom and integrity; broad and pale it is a sign of folly; deep and unequally colored it denotes malice.—New York Telegram.

Coronation Graft.

The practice of running the fountains and conduits with wine on coronation day was abandoned after the reign of Queen Elizabeth, but another old custom was observed up to the coronation of George IV. After the king and the company had departed from the banquet in Westminster hall the doors were thrown open, and the people rushed in and cleared the tables of everything—vinctuals, cloths, plates, dishes, etc., all vanished in a few minutes. And, as Sir Walter Scott tells us, the nobility were not above taking away the saltcellars and spoons.

An Office Cushion.

If those of you who have a husband or brother or sister working in an office will go to the trouble of making a flat cushion for the chair of the worker you will find that it saves the trousers or skirt from getting "shiny" and also helps to retain the garment in form.—Good Housekeeping.

Speaking Truth.

Speaking truth is like writing fair and comes only by practice. It is less a matter of will than of habit, and I doubt if any occasion can be trivial which permits the practice and formation of such a habit.—Ruskin.

Time to Go.

"Pa, is a vessel a boat?"

"E—yes—you may call it that."

"Well, what kind of a boat is a blood vessel?"

"It's a lifeboat. Now run away to bed."—Boston Transcript.

Not Fast.

"I, understand," says the father, "that you have been going with a very fast set."

"Fast, nothing," retorts the son. "Why, not one of them has a four cylinder car?"—Judge.

The essential thing is not knowledge, but character.—Le Conte.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Knocking the Head Trick.

Do you desire me, ladies, to teach you my secret for making impromptu verses? It is to rub your forehead well, not with the hand as Horace did of old, but by giving your head some good sound blows against the wall. Then proceed to knock your head three or four times against a door and put your hand to your forehead as if to soothe the pain produced by the violence of the blows. But you must do something more than merely touch the door with your head. At the same moment that you make the movements as if knocking yourself, you ward off the blow by the aid of the left hand held to the door about the spot which you appear to strike, while the closed right hand, concealed from the audience, strikes on the other side of the door.

The correspondence of the movements of the head with the noise of the blows given by the clenched fist produces a perfect illusion on the minds of the spectators.

Frolickers of the Sea.

The merry dolphins have a peculiar, murmuring cry, and when the sailors hear it they say the dolphins are talking together. Of all the creatures of the sea these show the greatest evidence of animal mirth. Often they are seen by ships' passengers in the Mediterranean and the northern Atlantic ocean, frolicking and leaping from the surface of the sea with a thousand graceful motions. Now they leap with curved bodies many feet into the air, then they drag through the waves rapidly, leaving a slender wake of whitening foam under the water. The dolphin is not more than six or eight feet long. The body tapers toward the tail, which is shaped like a crescent. It has a beak about six inches long and a crescent shaped blowhole, with horns turned backward. It is white on the back, grayish on the sides and white beneath.

About the Moon.

The bright side of the moon always is turned toward the sun whether the sun is visible to us or not. So we should expect that if the moon is less than full a line joining the center of the moon and the center of her illuminated edge would always point toward the sun while the cusps or horns of the moon in her first or last quarter would point away from the sun. But if we come to watch the moon we shall find that the position of the cusps often is different from what we had expected. For instance, the sun may be well below the horizon, yet the horns may be turned a little downward and the center of the bright edge a little upward.

The Bargain Counter.

This is a good test of memory as well as observation. The bargain counter may be a table in the middle of the room. On the counter place a number of articles—books, vases, small objects at hand.

One child is chosen to take charge of the shop, and a second one, after carefully looking over the collection to be sold and remembering every article, leaves the room. While he is absent a third person selects and hides one of the pieces. When the second child is called on he must try to get one guess to say which of the articles was sold in his absence. If he guesses correctly he may be the next shopman.

Tree Puzzlers.

What is the double tree? Pear.

What tree is nearest the sea? Beech.

Name the lustrous tree. Pine.

What is the chronologist's tree? Date.

What tree is adapted to hold shirt waists? Box.

What tree will keep you warm? Fir.

What is the Egyptian plague tree? Locust.

What is the tree we offer friends at meeting and parting? Palm.

The tree found in churches? Elder.

The fiery tree? Burning bush.

The tree used in wet weather? Rubber.

The tree that protects from the heat of the sun? Umbrella.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Some Old Proverbs.

A blind man is no judge of colors. Eternity is often hidden beneath beauty.

There is often anger in a laugh. A dress often hides a deceiver.

A foolish word is folly. Hope consoles the persecuted.

The well fed forget the hungry. Idleness is the fool's desire.

Next of the Grebe.

The grebe, or dipper, although awkward on land, is an expert diver and has the power of remaining long under water and thrusting out the bill for a supply of air. The little grebe builds a floating nest, which she removes at the approach of danger, paddling it with one foot.

Lions Like Lavender.

Lion tamers frequently perfume themselves with lavender. There is, it is said, no record of a lion ever having attacked a trainer who had taken the precaution of using this perfume.

Filling the Sugar Bowl.

I like to help Susan by filling the bowl with sugar so white and sweet, you know.

I put in a lot.

And pat it all down.

And make it so smooth and neat, you know.

With never a hump or snag or lump.

For the house I always go out, you know.

Sure It Was His Wife.

Three o'clock was the very earliest

the man could get up to the store, so his wife asked him to meet her then. "I don't know in what department I shall be at that time," she said, "but just before 3 I will telephone to the clerk at the information bureau near the main entrance, and if you will just step over and ask him he will tell you where I am."

At two minutes past 3 the man sought information as to the whereabouts of his wife.

"I have a message," said the clerk, "from a woman who said her husband would inquire for her about 3 o'clock. Maybe it is for you. She said to tell you that she has gone to Blank's store, over on Sixth avenue, to finish her shopping because the clerks in this store are impudent, the place is ill ventilated and she couldn't find anything she wanted here anyhow and never has been able to find anything here and this is positively the last time she will ever try to find anything here. Of course that might have been your wife."

"Oh, yes," said the man; "that was her all right."—New York Sun.

Cochineal Insects.

Before many years cochineal scarlet will have become a thing of history only, like the Tyrian purple of antiquity. That is the conclusion of M. Leon Digne, who has been studying the state of the cochineal industry in Mexico. The first specimens of cochineal were taken to Europe by the Spanish adventurers in the sixteenth century. The Indians had cultivated the cactus cacti, from which the color is derived in pre-Columbian times, and after the Spanish conquest the industry developed rapidly. The city of Oaxaca was the center of the cochineal country in the days of Humboldt, but only a few plantations of the nopal cactus, on which the insects are fed, now remain. The female insects only are used to form a dye, and they are gathered by brushing the branches of the nopal as soon as they begin to lay their eggs. They are then desiccated in ovens or killed with boiling water.

Duel With Horsewhips.

A novel but brutal form of duel between two warriors took place at Baja, Hungary. Being both in love with the daughter of the farmer who employed them, they decided to fight for her with their heavy horsewhips. The girl agreeing to act as umpire and accept the winner. In order to insure that there should be no running away, they first fastened themselves to two posts in the ground. The girl gave the signal to begin, and the two men, who were stripped to the waist, began to belabor each other with such fury that long bleeding welts soon covered their faces, arms and bodies. Unable to bear the horrible sight, the girl ran away for help. When she came back with some of the neighbors they found the two men lying on the ground covered with blood and exhausted. The duel was declared a draw.

A Luscious Mosaic.

A speaker at a literary dinner in New York said:

"He who writes for posterity can only expect the approval of posterity. To his own generation his work will be as unpalatable as German carp—and you know the recipe for cooking German carp?"

"No! Well, then, this is it: 'Catch a German carp in a stagnant and muddy stream. Clean it immediately and hang it in the sun three days to dry. After it is thoroughly dried nail it to a spruce board and cover it with a paste of salt and mud. Let it stand two days longer. Now bake it forty-eight hours. Remove the nails, scrape off the salt and mud paste carefully and then eat the board—never eat the carp.'"

Why the Head of a Lion.

A custom there is in most parts of Europe to adorn aqueducts, spouts and cisterns with lions' heads, which though no blandaible ornament, is of an Egyptian genealogy, who practiced the same under a symbolical illusion. For because the sun being in Leo, the flood of Nilus was at the full and water became conveyed into every part, they made the spouts of their aqueducts through the head of a lion.—Sir Thomas Browne, "Vulgar Errors."

Eskimo Beliefs.

Eskimos believe that earth and air are filled with spirits. The one drug men into the earth by the feet, from which they never emerge, the other strikes men dead, leaving no mark. They often stop and listen and say that Thina of the wind is passing by, imagining that the air is full of voices.

BIG SUM FOR MILITARY ACADEMY

Washington, Aug. 24.—It will cost

$1,700,000 to conduct the United States Military Academy during the next fiscal year, according to estimates received by the war department recently, from Major General Thomas G. Barry, superintendent at West Point. General Barry asks congressional authority for new buildings at an expenditure of $3,000,000 to be spread over a period of five years. This is to carry out the plan of enlargement to accommodate 750 cadets. The plan which has been approved by Congress is in accordance with a plan drawn by Senator Root of New York when he was secretary of war. The plan received the approval of Congress at that time, but although the cost was estimated at $10,000,000 the limit was fixed at $7,600,000. General Barry strongly urges that efforts be made to raise this limit. Of this sum it is desired that $500,000 be appropriated during the current year for completing the new academic building and putting up a new hotel and a school building for the children of the officers and enlisted men at the academy.

Although three entrance examinations were conducted during last spring there still remains fifty-three vacancies in the cadet corps at the academy. The President and secretary of war urged upon Congress last year the enactment of a law providing that in case vacancies were not filled by congressional appointment the superintendent may fill them from the list of qualified alternates in the order of their merit. This provision was favorably reported by the senate military committee, but was killed on a point of order.

COMPLIMENTS FOR MR. FRISBEE

Representative O. L. Frisbee has received many complimentary letters from all over the country on his address at Bretton Woods. Among them being the following:
United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company,
Baltimore, Md., Aug. 24, 1911.
O. L. Frisbee, Esq.,
Portsmouth, N. H.,
Dear Sir:—As a native of the good old "Granite State" I have read with much interest your address before the American Forestry Association at Bretton Woods which appears in the Manufacturers Record—although I have not lived in New Hampshire for a number of years, I have always kept a very warm spot in my heart for the good old state and an article such as yours can not cause one to feel other than I and of his native state, particularly in view of its feature possibilities has expansion and development. You will pardon lions in addressing this letter to you, but your article enthused me to such a degree that it became necessary for me to voice my sentiments

through this communication.
Your very truly,
SAMUEL F. GILSON.

NO ROOM FOR INSPECTOR ANDREWS

What's the hitch? A month ago
Inspector of Weights and Measures Andrews was promised many good things that would help him in his official capacity among which was an office at city hall neatly furnished with everything necessary to make him happy and give this municipal office more significance.
Something turned up and there appears to be no room for Mr. Andrews in the new administration building.
The inspector is much disappointed to think that his work does not entitle him to a small space on Daniel street. It looks now as if he will be obliged to continue his office work at home and will not be seen at city hall only when officially called there.
But he is not alone, the plan for new rooms for the city auditor has also been held up and may be a matter for the next city government to handle.

WILD GOOSE CHASE

Fake Message Sent to Light-house Boat Lilac at Portland

Another fake message for help fell into the hands of the United States lighthouse steamer Lilac at Portland on Friday and the boat came here on a wild goose chase. The captain of the Lilac received a message by telephone, supposed to have come from Kittery to the effect that Keeper Williams of Boone Island light was marooned on a ledge in Portsmouth harbor and needed assistance at once. The government boat came along the coast with good speed and after making a thorough search of the harbor decided that it was out on a fake message. This work will prove pretty expensive looking for someone before long. The authorities are engaged in trying to locate where this call was sent from as it is not the first of its kind that has been sent to revenue cutters and life savers.

RAILROAD NOTES

The employees of the Boston and Maine and Portsmouth Electric Railway were paid today.
Owing to the heavy travel train
No. 23 due here for Boston at 10:35
this forenoon was run in two sections.
Special coal trains with coal for the Pacific Mills at Dover were run from this city on Friday.
An excursion on the Concord and Portsmouth branch for Isles of Shoals will be run from Manchester and Concord on Sunday.

NEWS FORECAST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26—Both political parties in Maryland will hold their State primaries Tuesday for the selection of candidates for the State offices to be filled at the autumn election. Interest centres chiefly in the spirited contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination between State Senator Arthur P.
Gorman and State Senator Blair Lee.
Phillips Lee Golsborough will receive the Republican nomination for governor without opposition.

Emerson Piano Quality.

Quality in a Piano is absolutely essential, for a poor quality Piano is not a Piano at all. It may be a "furniture piano" if you will, but it is not a musical one —and what is the good of a Piano if it is no musical?
The Emerson Piano seems to grow better every day. The makers of this instrument have lately surpassed themselves. The Pianos that are now coming to us are simply magnificent. The touch, the tone, and the finish are better than ever before.
The more difficult you are to please, the better we shall like it, for you cannot but be pleased with these instruments, yet with all their goodness they are sold for a fair price on easy terms.

The Time When a Plumber is Needed

is at the first sign of trouble. For if neglected the damage is bound to grow bigger. Plumbing doesn't fix itself—not by a great deal. Send for us when the first little break occurs.
That will save you money
in more ways than one.
